They will become the enemy Suffering for eternity No one can surrender No choice but to bleed The believers kill their own kind Unless the followers take strike To uphold our spirits inside We must inform unstable life You lost the connection A blank interaction Trapped in fear that all will be taken Forget the past As you take it in your hands They will become the enemy Suffering for eternity Onto the horizon Feel the future arriving System failure You know you can't stay this way You know you wont be the same The more you look outside this world The more you can see happening.