

Harlequin Dream

Boy & Bear

And I've been worried for a while now
Cos' you don't look the same
How the devil takes his toll
When you go walking through that flame

And I'm not saying it's been easy
But you know all too well
That you cannot replace the space
Your spirit had once held

So we run through the jungle
And I can feel the rhythm of war
You see I'm fighting
But I just can't fight anymore
I'm in awe

So we'll give ourselves to the Harlequin Dream
Giving over all our friends and our family
And we'll say goodbye to the world that we love
For I can no longer deny my blood

And now you're taking on a kingdom
I'm ravenous for more
An appetite so beautiful
But vacant to it's core

I've been living on my instincts
So you better run
You better keep moving along
For it seems I have been wondering
Far too long

So we run through the jungle
And I can feel the rhythm of war
You see I'm fighting
But I just can't fight anymore
I'm in awe

So we'll give ourselves to the Harlequin Dream
Giving over all our friends and our family
And we'll say goodbye to the world that we love
For I can no longer deny my blood
