Boy I know your secrets though you Braq and swagger and you lay women down You're the same tough guy that cried in my arms And kissed me when the lights went down I hear you married some Danish girl I'm so glad that it wasn't me 'Cause you're like so many of those boys I've known You break your promise easily Unfinished business fox in the headlights Tears for what might have been Unfinished business crawling out of the woodwork You know how to ruin a good dream See your life reflected in my painted eyes These memories are hard to shake I pressed my lips against your trembling flesh And waited for your back to break You liar, you coward, you sleeping fool Hey don't you know that secrets kill Heaven and hell are right here on Earth Decided by your own free will Unfinished business fox in the headlights Tears for what might have been Unfinished business crawling out of the woodwork I know how to ruin a good dream Now go tell your friends that I'm mad in my head That I don't know what I mean You walk like Jack and you love like Mary And you're more than a bit of a queen Unfinished business You know exactly what I mean You lie, you lie, you lie You lie, you lie, you lie Unfinished business, yeah tough guy You know exactly what I mean