

You're ashamed about all your fears and doubts
And how I hurt you
Can you make it back from the aftermath
And how I left you
Nobody wants to be alone
With the fear of letting go
If you could hear me say
"It's gonna be okay"
Would you be okay?

And though I've gone away
I still see what you're going through
It kills me everyday
To know I killed what meant most to you
So when you pass my grave
Leave a rose for what might have been
And know that it's okay
To shed your tears and find love again

For better or worse you're the one
I never thought I'd hurt
But looking back on these dreams
If nothing is what it seems
Know that you'll wake up to better things

And though I've gone away
I still see what you're going through
It kills me everyday
To know I killed what meant most to you
So when you pass my grave
Leave a rose for what might have been
And know that it's okay
To shed your tears and find love again

I hear you say
"I don't know how and I don't know why"
But there will come one day
When I'll tell all the things inside
Just know there's someone above here to help you

And though I've gone away
I still see what you're going through
It kills me everyday
To know I killed what meant most to you
So when you pass my grave
Leave a rose for what might have been
And know that it's okay
To shed your tears and find love again

I'm sorry I broke you
But there was nothing that you could do
Oh I never thought it would end this way
But now there's nothing that we could say
But goodbye, goodbye
All we have left is goodbye
Goodbye...
