

The Push And Pull

Boys Night Out

There isn't always room to breathe.
His lungs are longing for release.
His choices are:
A: Pack and leave.
B: Begin to make his peace, or
C: Start screaming (he starts to scream)
Until he has no voice.
He was never that great with multiple choice.

Besides run stay or scream; the truth remains the same.

She's beautiful and brilliant though,
Incapable of letting go.
When he's gone she lays awake all night.
At home she's prone to picking fights.
So she starts screaming (she loves to scream)
Until she has no voice
She's in love with conflict
And conflicted by choice

They have each other in a violent grip
Of pure ambivalence
(They love the push and pull, it makes them miserable)
God bless their swollen hearts, made up broken parts
(They love the push and pull, it keeps them comfortable)
Besides it's not to love they need
It's the uncertainty
