

Last Night A Passenger

Brandon Boyd

Last night I think I've lived a thousand years
I caught wind the soulful song of passing winds
Swam past crustacean and a school of fish
Join class they said but keep a weather eye
Keep a weather eye out

That sound that pulled me out got louder still
Till salt and sea became a vacuum's mouth
I tumble into a darkened room
Twas a void that smelled of stale sea air

I said my oh my
Where on Earth am I?
I've been swallowed whole
Now a passenger
In the belly of Fate

Last night I traveled without eyes or ears
Sat idle in the womb of understance
From salem to the isle of white
A hostage in the mouth of myth

I said my oh my
Where on Earth am I?
I've been swallowed whole
Now a passenger
In the belly of Fate
