The Christmas Song

Brandon Heath

Empty manger, perfect stranger about to be born
Into darkness, sadness, desperate madness, creation so torn
We were so lost on earth, no peace, no worth
No way to escape

In fear, no faith, no hope, no grace, and no light But that was the night before Christmas Warm hay, cold sweat, a mother, not yet Praying godspeed the dawn

She looks to her man, holding her hand, they wonder how long  $\mbox{\footnote{A}}\mbox{$

One star above shining on love So bright it lit up the night before Christmas.

And the world didn't know mercy was meek and so mild And the world didn't know that truth was as pure as a child The night before Christmas The night before Christmas

And the world didn't know redemption was sweet and so strong And the world didn't know salvation was writing a song The night before Christmas The night before Christmas

Empty manger, perfect stranger about to be born
