Happy Ever After

Brandon Rhyder

Through that green field, through yellow flowers Over that hill, lies a heavenly lake Her beauty inspires me, it makes me feel calm Much like being wrapped up, baby in your arms But everybody knows, that happy ever after Has valleys of darkness, has snow capped mountains Everybody knows, there are beaches on shores That somehow disappear in the eye of the storm You asked me a question, I gave you an answer You're all I want and more And if happy ever after, means fighting some battles Baby you're worth fighting for I believe in love songs, and I believe in pain I believe in sunsets, I believe on rainy days I believe in your presence, that I am a better man Then I'd ever be, without you here

But everybody knows, that happy ever after
Has valleys of darkness, has snow capped mountains
Everybody knows, there are beaches on shores
That somehow disappear in the eye of the storm
You asked me a question, I gave you an answer
You're all I want and more
And if happy ever after, means fighting some battles
Baby you're worth fighting for
And if happy ever after, means fighting some battle
Baby you're worth fighting for