Throwaway

You make me feel so selfish You make me feel like such a jerk Always taking all my licorice And say you wish That things would work How do I feel about you? I don't know I don't feel anymore Who the hell are you Anyways I don't know I don't care anymore You go skip across the country + Shove it all back in my face And then you break it to me gently Some kiss girl was the case Yer really not impressing me Now that I am more appeasing Taking everything for free To lay me down I'm freezing If we could be friends today Could we share in a special way Or let me know when it's OK If it's easier just to throwaway
