

Paralyzed

Breakdown of Sanity

There is no masterplan, I'm so confused and paralyzed here where the fuck I am, just dark walls around me as high as mountains my hands on my chest, they feel like a thorn deep inside me this pain brings me down to my knees what's behind those fuckin' walls

I hate the future

looking for some answers my decisions are setting the track switch through the jungle of this life but what to do if there is more than just one way

I never wanted that you leave me but I saw it in your eyes, the trust was already dead all the time I tried to cope, I said to myself, look forward to a new chapter this is my confession, I'm still in love with you could I find the way back to you

I can feel there is still hope walls so high I can't see the sun anymore - this is a fucking dead end