Gone So Long

Breathe Carolina

My eyes open to the sound of a song I've heard Don't know the name, but I know all the words Sun came up, crawled into the front seat Memories leaving me, was it all a dream I had? Time for us to wake up

I'll save my words to make the most of it I never meant to be gone so long

Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long

Street lights passing Every one gets me a heartbeat closer To where it started beating Keep me feeling safe and sound When everything that's right is upside down Was it all a dream I had? Time for us to wake up

I'll save my words to make the most of it I never meant to be gone so long

Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long as I have You won't be home, I never meant to be gone so long Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long

The world still moves on I'm sorry I made you wait I wish that I, I could stay The world still moves on (I live for this, but I'd die for you) I'm sorry I made you wait I wish that I, I could stay The world still moves on (I live for this, but I'd die for you) I'm sorry I made you wait I wish that I, I could stay The world still moves on

Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long as I have You won't be home, I never meant to be gone so long Do you still remember my touch at all? I never meant to be gone so long
