All We Are

So much to love So much to hate So much to care for Now it's too late All we are All that we lost at any cost All that we save at the cross So much to build So much to burn So much to burn So much to break Got to take my turn So much to give So much to take So much apathy So much at stake