

Trial by Ordeal

Brodequin

Carried from whence you came drawn upon a hurdle to the place of execution led upon the blood-soaked platform lying amongst scattered limbs while beaten mercilessly children hung by their ankles with throats cut heads later removed and placed in a cauldron parboiled for preservation tar sparking and glowing entrails blazing blood and limbs boiling bound and gagged awaiting further mutilation ears removed and nailed to a post butchering in gods name stomach cut open bowels pulled out tied with a string heart fastened so the last breath shall not escape to the trial