

One More Roll of the Dice

Brooks & Dunn

You ain't been thinkin' this through now have ya?
The last thing you need is the thing that you keep coming back to
The memories still fresh in your mind
The way that you lost with it all on the line
More than you could justify
But she gives you that look and you just gotta try

One more roll of the dice
Maybe just one more shot in the dark
One more chance that your luck might change
While you still got a little something left of your heart
She's a game you can play, not a game you can win
But one more roll of the dice and your believing again

Maybe your still holding onto what it felt like
The higher the stakes the bigger the rush when it goes right
But when your gambling with love,
Having it all is never enough
Its a curse when it gets in your blood
Your down to your shoes but you can't give it up

One more roll of the dice
Maybe just one more shot in the dark
One more chance that your luck might change
While you still got a little something left of your heart
She's a game you can play, not a game you can win
But one more roll of the dice and your believing again

She's a game you can play
Not a game you can win
But one more roll of the dice and your believing again

One more roll of the dice
Maybe just one more shot in the dark
One more chance that your luck might change
While you still got a little something left of your heart
She's a game you can play, not a game you can win
But one more roll of the dice and your believing again