

Just Fine

Brother Ali

The revolution will not be televised
The revolution's about to go out and get some exercise
Oh man, sometimes the revolution just needs a break man
Sometimes the revolution just needs to live life
Stop bugging out all the damn time
Check this one out here

The weight of the world is heavy on my mind
There's too much to do, never enough time
Need to learn how to lean and unwind
Take the days one at a time, be just fine

I woke up a little slower than usual
Sunlight pouring in my room, it was beautiful
Could hear that the baby had awoken
But she weren't even crying, she was giggling and playing
I got a call from my best friend
He outside and he's trying to get some breakfast
He said he knew it's right around here
So we left the Cadillac in the driveway and walked there
Laughs and jokes, and eggs and toast, and
I got the bill while he was outside smoking
He dropped it back off
Swear to God we got to do this more often, it was awesome
Bumping my favourite 2Pac song
I took a shower, put some brand new socks on
Turned the TV off, it's too nice out here
Put some clothes on the kids and we're outta here