

Together Alone

Bruce Cockburn

So many things to see in this old world but all I can see is you in a crowded subway train or walking in the country rain you're there with me too of all the songs sung in any day your voice is all I hear for though each song has its own place and, finished, quickly fades away I hear you everywhere and though I know you won't be pleased by all that I do surely we can find a way to overlook what you don't like it's been said many times that we're all by ourselves and each man is on his own I don't care, that may be true I just want to be with you together alone.
