

Killa On The Run

Bruno Mars

I don't recognize my reflection all i see is a product of your deception gave you all of me without question but you had to take advantage of a blessing I warned you, I told you it would end this way
If you kept on playing all those childish games
But just like every other man you're all the same Revenge is sweet I love the taste it's giving me