

After This Day Is Gone

Bryan Duncan

I can't tell the future and I don't care
'Cause as I learn to trust You
It's enough that You're there
Enough that You're there
You've given me the faith to live through today
So You can have tomorrow, you can have the next day
You can have the day after, the day after that, Jesus
I believe after this day's gone, long after all the damage is done
There's still a place in Your heart for me
There's still a plan I can't see, after this day is gone
I always love it when it's easy, things are goin' right
There will come a day when love is harder to come by Harder to come by
All I ask, that You help me, stay by my side
You can have tomorrow, you can have the next day
You can have the day after, the day after that, because
I believe after this day's gone, long after all the damage is done
There's still a place in Your heart for me
There's still a plan I can't see, after this day is gone
Nothin' in a day that time won't heal, eventually
As long as Your love lasts forever
Believe it, I believe it will get better
The reason why I'm here, that's what I say
I might not understand it, as I face a rainy day
Oh, here comes that rainy day
All I ask, that You help me, stay by my side
You can have tomorrow, you can have the next day
You can have the day after, the day after that, Jesus
I believe after this day's gone, long after all the damage is done
There's still a place in Your heart for me
There's still a plan I can't see
I believe after this day's gone long after all the damage is done
There's still a place in Your heart for me
There's still a plan I can't see, after this day is gone
This day is gone, after this day is gone