Buck Owens

Oh the bells started ringing and the birds started singing And the clock on the corner struck two Thunder started crashing and the lightning started flashing And I knew I was falling for you
I was standing on the corner when I knew that I's a goner
The first time you came into view
My head started rocking and my knees started knocking
And I knew I was falling for you
Oh the bells started...
(Well you scared me half to death I could hardly catch my breat h
Your smile made my heart go boom
And when I looked into your eyes I was almost paralyzed
And I knew I was falling for you)
Oh the bells started ringing...
Oh yes I knew I was falling for you
