

A Little Bit Of Sorry

Buju Banton

Taught you mother taught you well
'Cause you papa taught you well
Humble yourself, right now

A little bit of sorry
That never cause no strife
Anyhow you think you bigger than say you're sorry
Then you have a problem in life

Excuse me
That's a simple word of courtesy
I rather pack up and move
Than to have you walk all over me

And please and thank you
Let me say that in advance
Man, if you haven't been brought up too well
You need to give yourself a chance

Nothing to lose
And you got nothing to prove
Let nothing and no one stand in your way
Just get inside the groove

You can be never be, to be ignored
To look listen and care
Mans greatest in life
That is your inner fear

Little bit of sorry
that never cause no strife
Anyhow you think you bigger than say you're sorry
then you have a problem in life

Excuse me
That's a simple word of courtesy
I rather pack up and move
Than to have you walk all over me

Nothing to lose
And you got nothing to prove
Let no one stand in your way
Just get inside the groove

A little bit of sorry
That never cause no strife
Anyhow you think you bigger than say you're sorry
Then you have a problem in life

They make you abandon and not a frown
And think you going down
Bombs and crown on another side
I hope they don't alive

A little bit of sorry
That never cause no strife
Anyhow you think you bigger than say you're sorry

then you have a problem in life

Excuse me

That's a simple word of courtesy

I rather pack up and move

Than to have you walk all over me

And please and thank you

Let me say that in advance

Man, if you haven't been brought up too well

You need to give yourself a chance

Man, if you haven't been brought up too well

You need to give yourself a chance

Man, if you haven't been brought up too well

You need to give yourself a chance

Man, if you haven't been brought up too well

You need to give yourself a chance
