Baby Come Home

Bush

I ask myself what I think of this moment
I ask myself if I let you down
I can't believe that you're in my system
I can't believe that you're in my arms
Shall we dance 'fore the ambulance comes?
Shall we let the rain fall over us?
Shall we sing a settlement song?
Should have been who I was all along

Let your mind keep you strong
It's too late, we're long gone
It's too late, we're undone
I find you all by yourself
On the street again
Baby, come home again
Baby, come home again

It's dangerous 'cause the people are struggling
It's dangerous 'cause you're hard to see
I want to make everything better
I want to make you believe
I lost myself to the sea of memories
I lost myself to irreverent dreams
I lost myself when I first met you
I lost myself more than I ever knew

It's too late, we're long gone
It's too late, we're undone
I find you all by yourself
On the street again
Baby, come home again
Baby, come home again
Baby, come home again

All for your love, for your love
All for you
All for your love, for your love
All for you

It's too late, we're long gone
It's too late, we're undone
I find you all by yourself
On the street again
Baby, come home again
Baby, come home again
Baby, come home again
Baby, come home
Baby, baby, come home
Coming home
Coming home
Coming home
