

Dominoes

Butch Walker

Sitting with the dog
Trying to clear the fog
Of the memory, the last time
I saw her face

Fifty years of time
An accident would take my mind
Shortly after take my wife away from me

Everybody knows, memories will keep you alive
Some of them can't be erased
If I remember one today
Let it be of Grace

Cat skills are all frozen
Playing dominoes
And I can hear a voice reminding me
I'm her hero

Finding myself able
With the chair across the table
To remember that it wasn't always empty

Everybody knows, memories will keep you alive
Some of them just won't go away
If there's a memory left of Grace
Let it come back today

And I see her beside me
As the grandkids, they remind me
She's in the cemetery
That we played in as kids

They just think I'm crazy
But the things she tells me lately
Are the only things that I cannot forget

Everybody knows, memories will keep us alive
Some of them just can't be erased
If I remember one today
Let it be of Grace
