Morning After

Sun streams through the window It's another day I lie in bed nursing my hangover Couldn't stomach breakfast I feel like throwing up

Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after

The switch to double brandies Was a big mistake Now my mouth tastes like the bottom of a birdcage It's nature's way of telling me That I had better stop

Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after

Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after

Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after

Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after Wake up and face the morning after
