

More Than Friends

Cain's Offering

We're more than friends, we are like lovers
Two souls in one, forever entwined
I feel with your skin, you live on my heartbeat
Warm me within while tending my wounds

Miles still divide, the distance between us
Keeps growing still and hope is a lie
And every night we share the same dream
That's where we hide, you and I

You have always been much more than friend to me
And I could never hope to find another one Now that time is right, just tell me what to sacrifice for you tonight

Wake me with the sound
of your heartbeat through silence
If I'm an offering good enough for you
Or let me slumber deeper and deeper
Forever I'm waiting for you

Would you hate me if I crossed that line from wanting to why, alone I'm tonight
Tell me if I'm alive or just breathing
For I cast no shadow and I'm alone

You have always been much more than a friend to me
You were always so much more than a friend should be

Wake me with the sound
of your heartbeat through silence
If I'm an offering good enough for you
Or let me slumber deeper and deeper
Forever I'm waiting for you
Just call my name and I'll be there
Forever I'm waiting for you

You have always been much more than a friend to me
You were always so much more than a friend should be

Wake me with the sound
of your heartbeat through silence
If I'm an offering good enough for you
Or let me slumber deeper and deeper
Forever I'm waiting for you
Just call my name and I'll be there
Forever I'm waiting for you
