Unknown Reason

Every sentence you say And every desperate attempt To draw attention hides a lie Diseased, pathologically inflamed Shaped by your sophisticated eloquence You vehemently assert your devious views Which reign over your smallness A champion at mystification and treachery I don't understand how you can still do this To someone you call a loyal friend Is it possible to listen to someone Who hears no one but himself? Why compromise and trust someone Who's betrayed you countless times I'm not gonna watch the same game Over and over again I'm not like them Here's the money for your patch work You can't overpower me And this is not a trademark To camouflage your indolence How do you want take command Without knowledge, morality, logic and rules Just useless words and waste of time Still the same old business while things change Go fuck yourself I don't know the answer to your question why...why Why? Maybe because shit smells

Cales