

Just To Be Wrong

Cam Meekins

She stood patiently in front of the mirror waiting for class
Her lipstick kiss on the corner above the glass
She was a good student, self-conscious wannabe
Had to pay a thousand dollars to hear what she thought of me
Her hair was an offshade of brown, holding it down
For a moment I thought she was just the finest in town
Had a Starbucks cup carried it with her when it's empty She's lookin' for a refill and I woulda gave her plenty but

Why do we wait, do we wait, do we wait, do we wait for
so long
Wait for so long
Cause I been waitin' and waitin' and waitin' just to be wrong
Just to be wrong
She said she'd call me on a Sunday
That was last Tuesday
It's already Monday, I ain't trynna two-way
I ain't trynna two way
She said she'd call me on a Sunday
That was last Tuesday
It's already Monday, I ain't trynna two-way
I ain't trynna two-way

So dawg what's up man I'm more just a man in the middle I ain't cool, I ain't hot but I'm definitely in the riddle
Cause these people try to figure me out there's nothing to it
I'm real, about as real as these fake bitches can do it What's real? What's fake? What's life? Smoke cigarettes
We all gonna die right, fk it I'm kidding man
I never puffed cigs my flannel is what I'm rockin I like self-conscious girls who trynna get the cock in That's most of em, said he was hot well now we toastin em
Look who just signed a deal so now we boastin' em
Maybe now I can come rockin' and get some bitches Cause my game and my swag stepped up a couple switches
But I still look at the mirror and be like "Why God"
Even though they bump me on their iPod I feel for the people who waiting until their time is right
Pray for the people who thinkin' they'll never see the light

Why do we wait, do we wait, do we wait, do we wait for
so long
Wait for so long
Cause I been waitin' and waitin' and waitin' just to be
wrong
Just to be wrong
She said she'd call me on a Sunday
That was last Tuesday

It's already Monday, I ain't trynna two-way
I ain't trynna two way
She said she'd call me on a Sunday
That was last Tuesday
It's already Monday, I ain't trynna two-way
I ain't trynna two way

[Trama:]

Yo, see I ain't famous yet but someday you'll take a shot for me
Some niggas took a shot at us and here you wanna part with me
Honestly really that experience kinda hardened me Now it's fk love cause you tore my heart apart from me
Me and my niggas try not to be sentimental
We give away what is meaningless and treasure just a little
I learned a little riddle, a question of humanity What's life without a lie and what's living without memories?
And I hope that you remember me
You were blind to my potential you could never see
And I can never leave, because you locked away my heart
You took my breath from the start but now I'm singin' in a better key Forget about those yesterdays and focus on these better days
How come you can't change what was said to me its over and its done
I was dumb to think you were the one, I was wrong

Why do we wait, do we wait, do we wait, do we wait for
so long
Wait for so long
Cause I been waitin' and waitin' and waitin' just to be
wrong
Just to be wrong
She said she'd call me on a Sunday
That was last Tuesday
It's already Monday, I ain't trynna two-way
I ain't trynna two way
She said she'd call me on a Sunday
That was last Tuesday
It's already Monday, I ain't trynna two-way
I ain't trynna two way

Correct these lyrics

Hottest Lyrics with Videos e29139127e36528add8e2d92e3bd40af