It was the very edge of summer the air was thin the sky more pale Dusty roads I remember Oh so well...

The winds of future blew around us The owners came to tell their tale, feelin' like a piece of paper in a gale.

Go West, go West.
where there's fruit in every place
a smile on every face...
Go West, go West...
Where there's work (so I'm told)

California's never cold, so Go West...

We sold part' our lives for 18 dollars... Bought a Hudson Super-6 Travelled on down the highway with no rest...

Childhood memories behind us Grown-up feelings lie ahead, Asked my Dad why we're going and he said...

Go West, Go West
Where there's fruit in every place
a smile on every face...
Go West, Go West...
Where there's work (so I'm told)
California's never cold... so,
Go West...
