

I shapeshift in the morning mist.
I was looking for a girl like you.
What the fk, you should be old enough
To know what I'm gonna do.

When a wolf like me starts to walk your way,
You can see death in its eyes,
But don't be fooled, though I look like man,
This mask I wear is a lie.

In the pouring rain, you know I feel no shame.
I do what I do to survive.
You stupid cunt, don't even try to run.
You know, you make it hard sometimes.

In the cool night air, you know I have no cares,
And I am not held by your laws.
With a steel trap jaw and a lust for blood,
My fists have turned into claws.

I shapeshift in the morning mist.
I was looking for a girl like you.
The chase is done; I know we've had our fun,
But now, for something new.

I could spread you out to the edge of the world
And rape your body and soul,
But I'll just rip you to shreds and leave you for dead
As a tale best left untold.

And so I walk away from another prey
Left bleeding all alone,
With a sheepish grin, I return to false skin,
But I'm still a beast to the bone.

I, the wolf, untamed and free,
As a carnivore's soul should be.
I, the wolf, though I look like man,
I shapeshift into me.
