

Thank You

Candice Glover

What ain't killing you makes you strong
And if there ain't pain, there's no gain
What a lesson learned and yea, it was hard
So I've gained enough strength to say

I thank you for everything
I appreciate what you've done for me
I'm thankful for lonely nights
And I'm grateful for tears I've cried
Because you didn't love me
And because you didn't want me
I can say that I'm the woman I am
Cause you've hurt me so

I have gained a life I never knew
Cause I learned to fall in love with myself more than you
I can stand my ground and see my worth
You're the reason why I'm standing today

So I thank you for everything
I appreciate what you've done for me
I'm thankful for lonely nights
And I'm grateful for tears I've cried
Because you didn't love me
And because you didn't want me
I can say that I'm the woman I am

It's all so clear
You came in my life
Now you're gone
Left behind all the things that I should, could, would be
You threw me aside
And wasted my time
The tears that I cried
I gave you my life
But without all that hurt I would still be so weak

Now that it's over
Now look at me
Now that it's over
I'm free
You stole my love and
I'm thankful it's over and done and I'm free

I'm glad that you did it
Now that it's over
Cause now I'm a better woman
Now that it's over
You tried to take it all from me
And I said goodbye

Said you're long gone
And you're so far away from me
Boy, you're just a memory
Thank you, baby
Thank you!
Thank you, baby

Thank you!
Thank you, baby
Thank you!
Thank you, baby

I just got one more thing to say
Thank you, baby
Thank you, baby
Thank you
Thank you, baby
Thank you
Thank you, baby

Thank you