

Accident

Canterbury

All the silence in the void
That has become of his broken mind,
Alone, when what's outside
Is scattered far and spread out wide