

Slowly, she lifts her head, from the pillow of winter boredom
Rigidly, she rises from her icy grave
With light in her eyes
And fight in her fists
She commences the winter war
And as the ice welks away
The spring queen will take over