

Lightbulb Song

Carina Round

Fade into blue
Every time I take myself
Where can I take you?
Where you won't be there?

Out of my reach
The past hangs bright like
1800 watt lightbulb
Illuminating my mind

I just don't know anymore
What you're thinking or when you're thinking about it
Would you touch me or would you rather do without it?

All your life, well do you crave for something more?
It's high time you opened your eyes, open your eyes
All your life, do you crave for something more?
These dreams, my fears, they disappear, I'm falling free, falling free

Passion and desire
My heat is rising
There's a hungry dog howling
In the throes of my mind

All that's left, anymore
A heartbeat through our young skin
Nothing comes out
And nothing goes in

All your life do you crave for something more?
It's high time you opened your eyes, open your eyes
All your life do you crave for something more?
In dreams my fears, they disappear, failing, falling

All your life do you pray for something more?
Your dreams, my fears they disappear, they disappear, they disappear
All your life do you crave something more?
The dreams, my fears they disappear, words just trip, words just trip
From your fingertips

All that's left, anymore,
A heartbeat through iron skin
Nothing comes out and nothing goes in
