

Homecoming Day

Carly Goodwin

So this is what it feels like
To have you back with me
I must have lost my senses
To ever let you leave
Oh what a sweet redemption
For all of my mistakes
The loneliness is gone
And I'm back in your arms
Homecoming day

The bridges you left burning
Must have been so hard to cross
And only now I'm learning
You didn't count the cost
You must have had a million chances
To go and give your heart away
I can't believe you saved it
Homecoming day

Every moment that we've lost
Is every tear I've cried
No heartbeat can be recalled
But no more will slip by

'Cause every one's a promise
To love you heart and soul
And I would rather die
Than ever watch you go again
If love brought you back
Then love will make you stay
Come lay down by my side
Oh baby all night
It's homecoming day
