The Pearl

If eyes could tell a story, if looks could write a tale, then yours would keep on telling me about a love that will never fail. The days I walked in worry, the nights I spent in tears, now they all seem so far away. You've made the dark clouds disappear. I was lost in a cold and lonely world, until I found you.

You are a pearl I set out to find, a hidden jewel of a different kind. You are more precious than gold, more valuable than diamonds. You are a treasure buried in the ground, that I won't trade whatever comes around. I'm glad I searched until I found the pearl.

I've cried upon your shoulder. You've been a helping hand, and I know in times of need in you I could depend. But you're more than just a brother. You're more than just a friend. You're all I ever longed for. I know you're from heaven sent. I was lost in a cold and weary place, until I found you.

You are a pearl I set out to find, a hidden jewel of a different kind. You are more precious than gold, more valuable than diamonds. You are a treasure buried in the ground, that I won't trade whatever comes around. I'm glad I searched until I found the pearl.

Without your love I'll be a thousand miles from home, like a ship searching for a shore, but I know your light will guide me.

You are a pearl I set out to find, a hidden jewel of a different kind. You are more precious than gold, more valuable than diamonds. You are a treasure buried in the ground, that I won't trade whatever comes around. I'm glad I searched until I found the pearl.

You are a pearl I set out to find, a hidden jewel of a different kind. You are more precious than gold, more valuable than diamonds. You are a treasure buried in the ground, Carola that I won't trade whatever comes around. I'm glad I searched until I found the pearl. I'm glad I searched until I found the pearl.
