

All Is Well

Carolyn Arends

Bones will ache, hearts will break
When living takes its toll, tears will fall
Still all is well with my soul

Storms will come, hide the sun
And leave us numb with cold
Rains will fall, still all is well with my soul

All is well that ends well
And in the end I'll be with You I know
All is well that ends well
And so all is well with my soul

Eyes will see, tragedies
And mysteries unfold
Nights will fall, still all is well with my soul

All is well that ends well
And in the end I'll be with You I know
All is well that ends well
And so all is well with my soul
