

Home Fires Burning

Carolyn Arends

I still remember our first December
The warmth of your touch and the spark in your eyes
We took desire and built us a fire
I know it will last us the rest of our lives

So let it rain, let it storm
We'll keep believing 'cause love keeps us warm

We are making our way, we are twisting and turning
Through it all we can see that every day
We are living and learning, we're finding a way
To keep the home fires burning

Days turn to years, we live through our tears
We laugh at our fears 'cause we've known from the start
Though life makes us older it can't make us colder
As long as this flame still remains in our hearts

So let it rain, let it storm
We'll keep believing 'cause love keeps us warm

We are making our way, we are twisting and turning
Through it all we can see that every day
We are living and learning, we're finding a way
To keep the home fires burning

Sure there are days when some misunderstanding
Lets in a cold winter chill but the fire never dies
'Cause you and I always remember to tend to the embers
And I know that we always will, I know we always will be

We are making our way, we are twisting and turning
Through it all we can see that every day
We are living and learning, we're finding a way
To keep the home fires burning