I hear too many voices condemning my choices I hear the sound of my own will

You think you know What's gonna happen here But you can't control When you're acting out of fear I choked all my demons I have scars to show You think you know You think you know

I've been wasting all my days away Trying to make believe that you could stay I know you hope I'll make my dreams come true I hope you know that I still dream of you Every time I close my eyes I see your face I've got the words you say stuck on replay You show me everything that I can be That's why I need you here right next to me You're everything I need I just can't live without you You're everything I see I hope you know my love is true

I feel 21 questions I'll never have answers to I feel so surreal

Our story is a tragedy You gave away everything I'm seeing scenes in my head Reliving all that you said to me Our story's a tragedy I lie awake in my bed Wonder if you remember me? You gave away everything I lie awake in my bed Reliving scenes in my head Get out of my head
