

Something doesn't feel right
I can't leave it alone
I've been pacing the whole night
Blocked your calls and smashed my phone

Punch drunk love since you kissed me the first time
Your goal is to control a heart and this time it's mine
Can you tell me how you feel now?
I guess I'll see the look on your face when the sun goes down

Don't you waste your life away
Straying away from a good thing
Remember every step you take
See yourself in everything

Can you tell me what it feels like?
Or should we leave it alone?
You've been pacing the whole night
Living your life through the lens of your phone

We don't even talk or text anymore
Last time that I saw you, you were sprawled on the floor
I guess I'd rather be nothing with you than be nothing at all
