

Sorry

Casey Donahew Band

Double wheels on a Tuesday night
I always wondered what rock bottom looked like
Smoke rings rising from a tattered vinyl corner booth

And I broke down and I called her up
She didn't cry this time and it sure cut
Deep in a dark place where I can't stand the truth

She said I'm sorry
I don't feel sorry for you
You did what you thought you had to
And broken promises finally broke my heart
Now feelings have changed, bridges burned
I moved on, now the table's turned
And healing's hard but I learned how
And I'm sorry
I don't feel sorry for you now

She said, I'm finally feeling good again
At times I thought the pain would never end
If I said I wasn't praying for this day I'd be lying

'Cause when you left you made me feel cheap
I cried rivers, I gained weight and lost sleep
Now I'm stronger for you leaving
Time makes ashes out of fire

She said I'm sorry
I don't feel sorry for you
You did what you thought you had to
And broken promises finally broke my heart
Now feelings have changed, bridges burned
I moved on, now the table's turned
And healing's hard but I learned how
And I'm sorry
I don't feel sorry for you now

I said, you don't have to be mean to me
She said, were you hoping for sympathy

Because I'm sorry
I don't feel sorry for you
You did what you thought you had to
And broken promises finally broke my heart
Now things have changed and bridges burned
I moved on, the table's turned
And healing's hard but I learned how
I'm sorry
I'm so sorry
Well, I'm sorry
I don't feel sorry for you now
