Mr.Colson

Cassie Steele

Ain't nobody like you I ever met before now Take a normal picture of life and you You mess it around You're just so complicated I Wanna figure you out Wanna write you on paper so I can Sing your song by mouth

But more than 'I', You are confused You don't know why you're head's unscrewed Maybe one day you'll unbury the truth 'Fore you get too jaded and then you can't take it I am good for you I know what you like and I like the same things that you do Let me inside you

If you just open Then we'd be rollin' in happiness Mr. Colson But let me love you

It's all about you Don't care 'bout nobody else Wanna break your mirror down The world is more than yourself You live half your life And you fake the rest I fell for the hero you showed me Cuz you had past success

But more than you, I am confused You never care 'bout when I'm blue Call me your girl And I'll call myself 'fool' But I'll still protect you From what's against you I was good for you I know what you believe I see the same way as you do But you closed me out of you

If you just open Then we'd be rollin' in happiness Mr. Colson But let me love you

If I can't have it Won't waste my time grabbin' Wrote you down, grab it Never took you for granted I was inspired Yes, I'm pleased with my mind's work I'll sleep when I'm tired Cuz you started a fire And now I can laugh Cuz I open and grab Something you'll never have Yeah, now I can laugh

I was good for you But it's good thing that I didn't sink for a fool You were just my muse I got so much story, nothing can hold me til I find a new man

That's broken like Mr. Colson That's broken like Mr. Colson That's broken like Mr. Colson, yeah Why'd you have to break me? Oh, Mr. Colson