

How does it feel to find you've lost your sight to a distraction so complete you had no idea it was happening to you?
Took your eye off the ball and now you've lost sight of all your goals, you can't focus on the dreams you've been blessed with I swear this generation's going blind