Scars

Cemetary

Once upon a time a time far past you broke my heart and broken it would last...

You left your scars and your scars run deep I think of you as I weep

But soon the sorrow evolves into the purest love a love to see you dying my angel from above

Days filled with confusion nights of endless search in horror you will be weltering as I emerge

What you did to me now comes to you in an act of love I will run you through

I leave my scars and my scars run deep with a grin I turn around and I leave you bleeding on the ground