

On the eve of the apocalypse
We're entombed underground
Radiation bleaches our skin
Albinos we have become

Nuclear crucifixion eradicates
Obscures the sun away
Toxic gas burns our eyes
Asphyxiates my lungs, wounded and screaming
Unconsciousness gleaming, suspended animation over comes

Six months go by Cataplexy, it takes toll

Awakening from my dismal slumber
I now see well in the dark
Bodily dismorphia has crippled me
Starving, dehydrated
I claw my way back to life
Hibernate

Somehow I did survive
The only human alive
Spared from oblivion
Extinction of man

A comatose being
Living in a haze
Fortitude slips away
Dreaming to survive, inebriated life
Sleep another day

I now dwell this lonely earth in search for living things
Breathing still while the world died
Why death passed over me
To repopulate this dying race
Rid the planet of hate!
