

The Happiness of Having You

Charley Pride

The sun comes up and throws it's light into my window,
Catching me a-yawning.
I persuade my eyes to open and begin to realise
That day is dawning
Then I reach out and feel the warmth of you
Curled up beside me once again.
Mmm-mmm-mmm.

It's the happiness of having you,
That makes my world a place worth living in.

As I leave to go, and face the care and worry of the day,
My heart is yearning.
For the setting sun to tell me that the day is done
And I can be returning.
To you hold you close and kiss the lips that taste like heaven
Time and time again.
Mmm-mmm-mmm.

It's the happiness of having you,
That makes my world a place worth living in.

As the doors of darkness close upon a day that's been too long,
And too demanding.
And I look into your gentle eyes and find them filled with love
And understanding.
That little tear of gladness finds it's way up to the surface o nce again.
Mmm-mmm-mmm.

It's the happiness of having you,
That makes my world a place worth living in.
Yes, it's the happiness of having you,
That makes my world a place worth living in.