The Last Fallen Hero

Charlie Daniels

Oh the cowards came by morning and attacked without a warning Leaving flames and death and chaos in our streets In the middle of this fiery hell brave heroes fell

In the skies of Pennsylvania on a plane bound for destruction With the devil and his angels at the wheel
They never reached their target on the ground
Brave heroes brought it down

This is a righteous cause so without doubt or pause
I will do what my country asks of me
Make any sacrifice
We'll pay whatever price
So the children of tomorrow can be free
Lead on red, white and blue
And we will follow you until we win the final victory
God help us do our best we will not slack or rest
Till the last fallen hero rests in peace

Now the winds of war are blowing and there's no way of knowing Where this bloody path we're traveling will lead We must follow till the end Or face it all again

And make no mistake about it, write it, preach it, talk it, sho ut it

Across the mountains and the deserts and the seas The blood of innocence and shame Will not be shed in vain

This is a righteous cause so without doubt or pause I will do what my country asks of me Make any sacrifice
We'll pay whatever price
So the children of tomorrow can be free
Lead on red, white and blue
And we will follow you until we win the final victory
God help us do our best we will not slack or rest
Till the last fallen hero rests in peace

God help us do our best we will not slack nor rest Till the last fallen hero rests in peace
