

Another Trigger

Charlie Winston

There's no security in anything we do
The bigger boats we build the more there is for sinking
The more protection that I have the more it hurts
And all these bullets in my head are made from thinking
But every time I set my mind to bullet proof
It's proving nothing but the fact I'm losing something

Another trigger, another trigger
And we're moving out of time
Another trigger, another trigger
And we're moving out of time

We need to laugh, we need to dance, we need to cry
Facing uncertainty as if it were a blood line
Who's got the feeling they're relinquishing control?
Who's got the feeling that we're following a bad sign?
I bet you never thought you'd play it out like this Hand on the buzzer as you're reaching for the answer

Another trigger, another trigger
And we're moving out of time
Another trigger, another trigger
And we're moving out of time

They try to separate us
With promises they'll make us
But illusions never last
They try to separate us
With promises they'll make us
But illusions never last

Another trigger, another trigger
And we're moving out of time
Another trigger, another trigger
And we're moving out of time