

Woah is this the world we know

Being sane that means nothing
When I'm trying to find the unknown

I've been left here to figure out what this life's all about I've traveled far I've traveled high and low to figure out what
's beyond
The stones throw

Is this the world we know

Don't say that we're all just the same you know were not
Right back to where it starts clenched fists and broken hearts
Crushed dreams and memories of things I thought id never see

I hate that were living this way

Is this the world we know

Should I wait should I hurry
Can I find in myself to live as I learn

I wonder why we remain in a safe place
Fight a little just to settle for the faceless
Are we wasted among these races of broken
Humans that remain being tasteless

Is this the world we know

Don't say that were all just the same you know were not
Right back to where it starts clenched fists and broken hearts
Crushed dreams and memories of things I thought id never see
I hate that were living this way is this the world we know

Hold on just one second your telling me its possible were just the
Subjects of a broken world

We walk alone sit and wait for what's thrown at us next
Try to falsify our lives with lies wrapped around our necks

Don't say that we're all just the same you know were not
Right back to where it starts clenched fists and broken hearts
Crushed dreams and memories of things I thought id never see
I hate that were living this way is this the world we know