Feral Love

Chelsea Wolfe

Run from the light Your eyes, black like an animal Deep in the wander

And care for no one but the offspring of your might Run from the one who comes to find you Wait for the night that comes to hide

Your eyes black like an animal Black like an animal Crossing the water Lead them to die

We press for the water, press for the river, press for the rain we press for the water, press for the river, press for the pain

We press for the water...
