The Last Supper

Chely Wright

I spent all day long just slavin' in the kitchen
I wanted everything to be just right
Yeah, the table's dressed with all the fancy trimmin's
Won't he be surprised when he comes home tonight

Well, it's half past five but there's no need to worry There's still lots of time after all he's always late When he's out with her he's never in a hurry So, I light a lonely candle and set his plate

Cause tonight he's comin' home to the last supper He'll break the bread and drink his wine alone I know God will forgive me Cause he knows how much I've suffered Lord, I'd like to have a picture of the last supper

Cause tonight he's comin' home to the last supper He'll break the bread and drink his wine alone I know God will forgive me Cause he knows how much I've suffered Lord, I'd like to have a picture of the last supper
