You were born between a rock and a hard place To a couple of losers I lived on the other side of your duplex I heard you getting those bruises I never would've wanted to walk in your shoes It scared me to death, I was a kid too Sometimes I think about you Travis are you out there somewhere Searching for somebody to care Are you doing the same thing That your daddy did to you Wish I could have helped you somehow Wonder if it's just too late now Saw your pain, how come nobody Seemed to have a clue Is your world still black and blue Travis, Travis Did you follow in your mama's footsteps Strung out on bad things Just a product of circumstances Never taught what love means Travis I hope you did it different this time All you had to do was make up your mind Well, how did you decide to live your life Travis are you out there somewhere Searching for somebody to care Are you doing the same thing That your daddy did to you Wish I could have helped you somehow Wonder if it's just too late now Saw your pain, how come nobody Seemed to have a clue Is your world still black and blue Travis, Travis And the circle goes round Until someone hears the sound Of a breaking heart Wish I could have helped you somehow Wonder if it's just too late Saw your pain, how come nobody Seemed to have a clue Is your world still black and blue Travis, Travis, Travis, Travis
